(2A) Where an accident happens to a worker outside Samoa and that worker continues to receive wages from his or her Samoan employment up to the time of the accident, that worker is entitled to all other compensation payable under this Act as may be incurred by a worker in respect of his or her treatment overseas except for expenses specified under subsection (2B).

(2B) Expenses for which workers under subsection (2A) are not entitled to are those under sections 31 and 32, and in relation to expenses under section 27, the workers are only entitled to funeral grants and not medical expenses.

19. Self-inflicted injuries, suicide and criminal conduct – (1)

Subject to subsection (4), no compensation or other benefit is payable or due under this Act:

- (a) for any personal injury that a person wilfully inflicts upon himself or herself or with intent to injure himself or herself, causes to be inflicted upon himself or herself, except being a personal injury which was the result of a state of mind which itself was the result of an accident covered by this Act; or
- (b) for the death of a person where the death was due to suicide not being suicide which was the result of a state of mind which itself was the result of an accident covered by this Act; or
- (c) to a dependant of a person by reason of the death of that person where the dependant has been convicted by a court in Samoa or elsewhere of the murder or manslaughter of that person; or
- (d) where a person suffers personal injury in the course of committing a criminal offence and the injured person is convicted of the offence concerned.

(2) Where the Corporation has reason to suspect that the death of a person is due to murder or manslaughter and that a dependant of the deceased person was criminally involved in the death of the person, the Corporation may refuse or delay payment of compensation or other benefit to that dependant until the investigation of the death of the person and any prosecution of the dependant for the murder or manslaughter of the person have been completed.

(3) Where the Corporation has paid compensation or other benefit to a dependant and such compensation or benefit was paid by reason of the death of a person the Corporation may recover such compensation or other benefit as a debt in the event that at any time the dependant is convicted by a court in Samoa or elsewhere of the murder or manslaughter of the person.

(4) The Corporation, in its absolute discretion, may pay compensation and other benefits to a person who is not entitled to compensation or other benefit by reason of subsection (1)(d) if the Corporation forms the view that the person's culpability for such criminal offence was minor and that in all of the circumstances it would be unjust not to pay such compensation and other benefits.

20. Refusal to submit to treatment – No compensation or other benefit under the Act becomes due or payable for the death or incapacity of a person if the person's death is caused or if and so far as the person's incapacity is caused, continued or aggravated by an unreasonable refusal to submit himself or herself to medical treatment or to a surgical treatment the risk of which is, in the opinion of the Corporation, inconsiderable in view of the seriousness of the injury or disease.

21. Persons who are not employers – (1) A person who is not an employer within the meaning of this Act or concerning whom there may be a doubt as to whether or not the person is such, an employer may, upon such terms and conditions as the Corporation may specify, be granted a certificate of protection which as long as it remains in force defines and determines the extent of a liability which that person has for the payment of a levy imposed under this Act.

(2) A certificate granted under this section comes into force or is taken to come into force on such date as may be specified in the certificate whether before or after the date of the application by a person under this section or the date of the certificate.

(3) A certificate granted under this section may be revoked by the Corporation at any time.

22. Exempted employers – (1) In any case where the Corporation is satisfied that an employer should be exempted from the obligation to pay levies imposed under section 52 in respect of any of his or her workers, it may conditionally or unconditionally grant a certificate exempting the employer wholly or as the case may require partly from such obligation.

(2) A certificate granted under this section shall be known as a certificate of exemption and comes into force or is taken to have come into force on such date as may be specified in the certificate whether before or after the date of an application by an employer for exemption under this section or the date of the certificate and shall subject to subsection (8) continue in force until such date as may be specified in the certificate.

(3) While a certificate of exemption granted under this section to an employer is in force the employer is exempted wholly or partly as the case may be from the obligation to pay levies under section 52 and his or her exempted workers or their dependants are not entitled under this Act to any compensation or rehabilitation assistance for or in respect of a personal injury or death by accident arising out of and in the course of employment, except to such extent as may be specified in the certificate of exemption.

(4) A certificate of exemption granted under this section may be in respect of all of the employer's workers or a designated class or classes of his or her workers.

(5) Except where in the opinion of the Corporation special circumstances exist, no certificate of exemption shall be granted under this section unless the Corporation is satisfied that there is in effect and will continue to remain in effect a scheme or arrangement approved by the Corporation whereby a worker affected by the proposed certificate of exemption, who suffers personal injury by accident arising out of and in the course of his or her employment during the currency of the certificate will derive greater benefit from such scheme or arrangement than he or she would derive under this Act if a certificate were not granted:

PROVIDED HOWEVER THAT no certificate of exemption shall be issued only because the benefit to a worker under such scheme or arrangement would be greater than that which such worker would derive under this Act.

(6) In considering an application for exemption under this section the Corporation shall have regard to the need for the preservation of the integrity of the Accident Compensation scheme administered under this Act and shall not grant any such certificate where in its opinion such grant would be detrimental (whether alone or by a precedental or other effect which might flow from it) to the integrity of the scheme administered under this Act.

(7) Unless otherwise determined by the Corporation, it is a condition of a certificate of exemption that the person to whom it is issued shall at all times while such certificate applies keep in full force and effect such alternative scheme or arrangement as may have been accepted by the Corporation upon the granting of the certificate and shall at such intervals as the Corporation may determine satisfy the Corporation that such alternative scheme or arrangement continues in full force and effect.

(8) Despite subsection (2), the Corporation may upon giving 14 days' notice in writing to an employer revoke or suspend the certificate of exemption given to that employer or may amend any or all of the conditions thereof.

22A. Double payment of compensation – (1) Despite anything in this Act, no person is entitled to receive compensation under this Act where such person is determined by the Corporation to be receiving compensation from a similar scheme in another country.

(2) Where a person is determined to be receiving compensation from a similar scheme overseas, the Corporation is entitled to seek a refund of the monies which have been awarded to the person under this Act and such monies shall be treated as a debt owing to the Corporation.

(3) A person who fraudulently declares, whether in writing or not, to the Corporation that he or she is not receiving compensation from a similar scheme in another country commits an offence and upon conviction is liable to a fine not exceeding 10 penalty units or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 5 years, or both.

PART 4 COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS

23. Compensation for temporary incapacity resulting in economic loss – (1) Where as a result of an accident covered by this Act a person suffers temporary total or partial incapacity for work, compensation is payable under this section.

(2) Subject to subsections (3), (4A), (4B), (6) and (7):

- (a) during a period of total incapacity, the weekly payment of compensation is an amount equal to 70% of the person's relevant earnings;
- (b) during a period of partial incapacity, the weekly payment of compensation is an amount equal to 70% of the difference between the person's relevant earnings and the amount which the person actually earns:

PROVIDED THAT –

- (i) if the Corporation considers, having regard to the medical and other evidence before it, that the person is not endeavouring to work in paid employment to the extent of the person's capacity, the Corporation may determine the amount of the weekly compensation at such figure as it considers appropriate; and
- (ii) in no case shall the compensation payable exceed $1,000 per week; and
- (iii) in no case shall the Corporation be required for a period to pay an amount which, when added to any money or money's worth received by the person from an employer, would exceed 100% of the person's relevant earnings for that period.

(3) Despite any other provision of this section or of this Act, if at any time, whether before or after the expiry of the time referred to in subsection (4A) or (4B), the Corporation is of opinion that the degree of incapacity suffered by a person to whom this section applies is likely to be permanent, weekly payments under this section shall (if they have not already ceased by virtue of subsection (4A) or (4B)) thereupon cease and the person shall be paid compensation under section 24.

(4A) Subject to subsection (4B), weekly payments of compensation are not payable in respect of a period after the expiry of 5 years from the date of the accident.

(4B) Despite subsection (4A), where in the opinion of the Corporation special circumstances in case make it just to do so, the Corporation may in its unfettered discretion (whether before or after the expiry of the period of 5 years referred to in that paragraph) extend the period in respect of which compensation is paid under this section to a person.

(5) The proportion of the weekly payment of compensation payable in of incapacity for part of a week shall be the proportion that the number of the person's working hours or days of incapacity during the week (exclusive of overtime) bears to such person's normal working hours or days for the week (excluding overtime).

(6) The Corporation is not liable under this Act in respect of an injury which does not totally or partially incapacitate a person from work for a period of at least 5 consecutive days (which may be the day of the accident and the 4 days next following) at the work at which the person was employed.

PROVIDED HOWEVER THAT if the incapacity lasts more than 5 consecutive days, compensation is (subject to subsection (5)) payable in respect of the total period.

(7) For the purposes of the assessment of weekly compensation under this Act:

(a) the amount of a person's relevant earnings are such amount as in the opinion of the Corporation would at the time of the accident fairly and reasonably represent that person's normal average weekly wages; and

(b) the weekly wages of a person are taken to be the wages for a full 40 hour week where employment is by the hour, or for a 5 day working week where employment is by the day, calculated in either case at the ordinary rate of pay for the work in which the person was employed at the time of the accident despite that the person may not have actually worked or that an employment may not have continued for a full week.

(8) In calculating the relevant earnings of a person, except to the extent that the Corporation in its discretion may in any case direct, no account shall be taken of:

(a) a sum that was paid to cover any special expenses imposed on the person by the nature of the person's employment; and

(b) overtime payments.

(9) Despite subsections (1) to (8), the weekly compensation payable to a person under this section shall be not less than 70% of the minimum wage applicable to that person at the time of the accident or an amount equal to the person's relevant earnings, whichever is the less.

24. Permanent injury compensation – (1) Where a person suffers personal injury by accident in respect of which the person is or, but for section 36, would be entitled to compensation under this Act and the injury involves the permanent loss or impairment of a bodily function (including the loss of a part of the person's body) there shall be paid to the person by the Corporation in addition to all other compensation and assistance to which the person is entitled under this Act:

- (a) if the loss or impairment is less than 80% of total bodily function, a lump sum or lump sums not exceeding in the aggregate $8,000 in respect of such loss or impairment representing the appropriate percentage of $8,000 specified in Schedule 1; or
- (b) if the loss or impairment is 80% of total bodily function or more, weekly compensation in accordance with subsection (2) for the whole of the person's life, or until the person fully or substantially recovers from the loss or impairment.

(2) The amount of weekly compensation payable under subsection (1)(b) is determined by application of the following formula:

$$\frac{70}{100} \times RE \times L$$

Where:

RE represents the relevant earnings of the injured person; and

L is the percentage of loss or impairment specified in Schedule 1:

PROVIDED THAT in any case the total amount payable shall not in any case exceed $1,000 per week.

(3) The lump sum or weekly compensation to which a person is entitled under this section is payable, or as the case may be, commence to be payable:

- (a) for a person who is entitled to compensation under section 23, when the entitlement (or any extended entitlement granted under section 23(4)(b)) ceases; or
- (b) for any other case, when the Corporation is satisfied that the loss or impairment of bodily function is permanent.

(4) Where a person suffers by the same accident more than 1 of the injuries specified in Schedule 1 the percentage of loss shall be aggregated but shall not exceed 100%.

(5) Where a person suffers the loss of or permanent physical injury to a part of the body or a permanent impairment of bodily function there may be taken into account in assessing compensation payable under this section the amount or part of the amount previously paid or continuing to be payable to that person in respect of the loss of or an injury to that part of the body or a portion thereof under this section or under a corresponding former provision.

(6) For the purpose of eliminating doubt, where a person in receipt of weekly payments under subsection (2) suffers the loss of or permanent physical injury to a part of the body or a permanent impairment of bodily function as a result of a further accident, the person may be entitled to a lump sum or, as the case may be, weekly payments, as a result of such further accident but in calculating weekly payments the aggregate of the losses or impairments is deemed not to exceed 100%.

(7) For the purposes of Schedule 1, the permanent loss of the sight of one eye by a person who is already without the sight of the other eye is taken to be the permanent loss of both eyes:

PROVIDED THAT there may be taken into account any payment by way of compensation which has previously been received by the person under this section or under a corresponding former provision in respect of the permanent loss of the sight of the other eye.

(8) Where as a result of an accident covered by this Act a person suffers a permanent physical injury or impairment that is not specified in Schedule 1, the Corporation may in its discretion after consulting one or more registered medical practitioners allot an appropriate percentage to such injury or impairment and apply this Act as if the injury or impairment had been specified in the said Schedule 1, and such injury or impairment is taken to be a loss or impairment specified in Schedule 1.

(9) No payment shall be made under this section after the death of the injured person.

(10) For the purposes of this section, where the injured person has no relevant earnings, or relevant earnings less than the minimum wage, the minimum wage applying at the time of the accident is taken to be the relevant earnings of that person.

25. Compensation for occupational diseases – (1) Where a person's total or partial incapacity for work or death results from a disease which is due to the nature of an employment in which the person is or was employed as a worker, compensation is payable as if the disease was a personal injury by accident arising out of and in the course of that employment.

(2) For the purposes of calculating the relevant earnings of a person in a claim for compensation under this section, the date of the commencement of the incapacity of the person (or the date of his or her death if there has been no previous period of incapacity) shall be treated as the date of the happening of the accident.

(3) Where a person has left the employment to the nature of which the disease was due, such person or his or her dependants, if so required by the Corporation shall furnish the Corporation with such information as to the names and addresses of all other employers who employed him or her in an employment as such person or dependants possess.

(5) Weekly payments of compensation under this section shall be paid to a dependent person during such time or times as in the opinion of the Corporation dependency exists:

(6) Where in the opinion of the Corporation special circumstances exist, it may pay weekly compensation under this section to a person who not being dependent on the deceased at the time of the accident was dependent upon the deceased at the time of the deceased's death and may in like circumstances decline or reduce compensation to a person who being dependent upon the deceased at the date of the deceased's accident was not or not to the same extent dependent upon the deceased at the date of the deceased's death.

(7) The lump sum to be paid under subsection (2) is the sum of $20,000, or under subsection (3) is such sum not exceeding $16,000 as the Corporation determines.

(8) In every case where a lump sum or weekly payments of compensation have been paid to a person in the person's lifetime in respect of an accident which subsequently causes the person's death the amount of such lump sum and weekly payments shall be deducted from the compensation payable under subsection (2)(a) and (b) or subsection (3)(a) and (b) but except as aforesaid no part of an amount paid to a person by way of compensation under this Act shall be deducted from the amount of compensation payable in respect of the person's death.

(9) Where more than 1 person was dependent upon the deceased, the Corporation shall, subject to the subsections (2) and (3), determine as to whom and in what proportions weekly compensation and the lump sum shall be paid.

NOTES

For the purposes of section 24 of this Act, when applying the foregoing provisions of this Schedule for the purpose of assessing permanent loss or impairment of bodily function affecting the hand and its digits, if multiple digits are involved assessment shall be made both by summing the individual losses specified in the foregoing provisions of this Schedule, and on the basis specified in section 24 in relation to the permanent loss or impairment of bodily function affecting the hand or lower arm as a whole as a gripping organ.

In relation to the last-mentioned method of assessment, complete loss of finger/palm grip in all its components shall be treated as constituting 60% loss of function of the hand, and complete loss of opposition or pincers grip shall be treated as constituting 40% loss of function of the hand, these figures to be apportioned into 4 equal parts for the individual digits.

Example:

	Finger/Palm Grip
Index	Middle	Ring	Little Finger
15%	15%	15%	15% loss of function of hand, equaling altogether 60% of loss of function of hand.

	Opposition or Pincers Grip
Index	Middle	Ring	Little Finger
10%	10%	10%	10% loss of function of hand equaling altogether 40% of loss of function of hand.

The higher figure arrived at after assessment by both these methods shall be the figure awarded.

If in the case of injury to a limb or part of a limb it is considered desirable in order to obtain the best functional result that the limb or portion of the limb be amputated at a more proximal level than the part injured, the disability shall be assessed as if the injury itself had necessitated the amputation at the more proximal level.

Assessment of Arthrodeses:

The following figures are to be used for a sound arthrodesis in the position of optimum function; partial joint stiffness's to be proportionally assessed under section 24 of this Act.

Shoulder	:Treat as 35% loss of function of the arms	28
Elbow	:Treat as 40% loss of function of the arm	32
Wrist	:Treat as 30% loss of function of the lower arm	21
Hip	:Treat as 50% loss of function of the leg	37.5
Ankle	:Treat as 35% loss of function of the lower leg	30
Triple (foot arthrodesis)	:Treat as 30% loss of function of the lower leg	18

Assessment of Shortening:

0-1/2 in	:Treat as 5% loss of function of the leg	3.75
1/2-1 in	:Treat as 10% loss of function of the leg	7.5
1-1 1/2 in	:Treat as 15% loss of function of the leg	11.25
1 1/2-2 in	:Treat as 20% loss of function of the leg	15

Pattelectomy:

Where there is full extension of the knee and full flexion in the knee with minimal quadriceps thigh muscle wasting, treat as 15% loss of function of the leg, this figure to be varied in less successful results related to residual joint stiffness. 11.25

Excision of Head of Radius:

Where full elbow extension and flexion movement is regained with full forearm rotation movement in either direction, treat as 15% loss of function of the arm, this basic figure to be varied in less successful cases related to residual joint stiffness. 12

Excision of lower end of Ulna Forearm Bone:

Where full forearm rotation movements are preserved and the wrist is normal, treat as 10% loss of function of the lower arm, this figure to be varied in less successful cases related to residual joint stiffness. 7

Ligamentous injuries of the Knee Joint with Residual Instability and including Quadriceps Insufficiently with Comparable Instability:

Moderate laxity :Treat as 15% loss of function of the leg - 11.25

Multiple Disabilities:

If the disability affects more than one limb the assessment shall be made by summing the figures, but if the disabilities involve the one limb the method of progressive extraction of losses, i.e., regarding the limb as a whole shall be used.

Spinal Disability and other Disabilities:

1. Cervical Spine:

(a) Persistent muscle spasm, rigidity, and pain substantiated by loss of anterior curve revealed by X-Ray, although no demonstrable structural pathology, moderate referred shoulder/arm pain. 10
