Division 5
Depreciation and Amortisation

29. Depreciation of depreciable assets – (1) A person is allowed a deduction for a tax year for the amount by which the person's depreciable assets have declined in value during the year through use in gaining or producing assessable income.

(2) Subject to this section, the amount of the deduction allowed under subsection (1) must be computed under either the straight-line method under section 30 or the declining balance method under section 31.

(3) A person must apply the same method of depreciation to a depreciable asset during the whole of the period that the person owns the asset.

(4) A structural improvement to real property can be depreciated only under the straight-line method and the cost of a structural improvement does not include the cost of the land on which the improvement is situated.

(5) If a depreciable asset is used by a person during a tax year partly to gain or produce assessable income and partly for another use, the amount allowed as a deduction under subsection (1) for the year is the proportion of the amount referred to in subsection (2) that relates to the use of the asset to gain or produce assessable income.

(6) If a depreciable asset is not used by a person in gaining or producing assessable income for the whole of the tax year, the depreciation deduction for the year is computed according to the following formula:

$$\frac{A \times B}{C}$$

where:

- A is the depreciation deduction computed under section 30 or 31 after taking into account subsection (5);
- B is the number of days in the tax year the asset is used in gaining or producing assessable income; and
- C is the number of days in the tax year.

30. Straight-line depreciation – (1) Subject to section 29(5) and (6), the depreciation deduction allowed under section 29(1) to a person for a tax year in respect of a depreciable asset under the straight-line method is computed by applying the rate of depreciation for the asset determined under international financial reporting standards against the cost of the asset (ignoring previously allowed depreciation deductions).

(2) The total deductions allowed, or that would be allowed but for section 29(5), to a person under this section in respect of a depreciable asset for the current tax year and all previous tax years must not exceed the cost of the asset.

31. Declining balance depreciation – (1) Subject to section 29(5) and (6), the depreciation deduction allowed under section 29(1) to a person for a tax year in respect of a depreciable asset under the diminishing value method is computed by applying the rate of depreciation for the asset determined under international financial reporting standards against the written down value of the asset at the beginning of the year.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the written down value of a depreciable asset at the beginning of a tax year is:

- (a) if the asset was acquired during the year, the cost of the asset; or
- (b) in any other case, the cost of the asset as reduced by the total depreciation deductions allowed to the person in respect of the asset in previous tax years.

(3) If section 29(5) applies to a depreciable asset for a tax year, the written down value of the asset is computed under subsection (2)(b) on the basis that the asset has been used solely to gain or produce assessable income.

32. Disposal of a depreciable asset – (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), if a person disposes of a depreciable asset in a tax year, no depreciation deduction is allowed for that year and:

- (a) if the consideration for the disposal of the asset exceeds the written down value of the asset at the beginning of the tax year, the excess is included in the assessable income of the person for the year; or
- (b) if the written down value of the asset at the beginning of the tax year exceeds the consideration for the disposal of the asset, the person is allowed a deduction in that year for the excess.

(2) If subsection (1) applies to a depreciable asset that has been used partly in gaining or producing assessable income and partly for another use, the amount included in assessable income under subsection (1)(a) or allowed as a deduction under subsection (1)(b) is the fair proportional part that relates to the use of the asset in gaining or producing assessable income.

(3) Section 31(2) and (3) apply in determining the written down value of a depreciable asset at the beginning of a tax year.

33. Amortisation of intangibles – (1) A person is allowed a deduction for a tax year for the amount by which the person's intangibles have declined in value during the year through use in gaining or producing assessable income.

(2) The decline in value of an intangible of a person for a tax year is computed by applying the rate of amortisation specified in subsection (3) against the cost of the intangible (ignoring previously allowed amortisation deductions).

(3) The rate of amortisation is:

- (a) for preliminary expenditure, 25%; or
- (b) for an intangible with a useful life of more than 10 years or that does not have a useful life, 10%; or
- (c) for any other intangible, the rate of amortisation applicable under international financial reporting standards.

(4) If an intangible is used by a person in a tax year partly to gain or produce assessable income and partly for another use, the amount allowed as a deduction under subsection (1) is the proportion of the amount computed under subsection (2) that relates to the use of the intangible to gain or produce assessable income.

(5) If an intangible is not used for the whole of the tax year in gaining or producing assessable income, the amortisation deduction for the year is computed according to the following formula:

$$\frac{A \times B}{C}$$

where:

- A is the amortisation deduction computed under subsection (2) after taking into account subsection (4);
- B is the number of days in the tax year the intangible is used in gaining or producing assessable income; and
- C is the number of days in the tax year.

(6) The total deductions allowed, or that would be allowed but for subsection (4), to a person under this section in respect of an intangible for the current tax year and all previous tax years must not exceed the cost of the intangible.

(7) Subject to subsection (8), if a person disposes of an intangible in a tax year, no amortisation deduction is allowed for that year and:

- (a) if the consideration for the disposal of the intangible exceeds the written down value of the intangible at the beginning of the year, the excess is included in the assessable income of the person for the year; or
- (b) if the written down value of the intangible at the beginning of the year exceeds the consideration for the disposal of the intangible, the excess is allowed as a deduction for the year.

(8) If subsection (7) applies to an intangible that has been used partly in gaining or producing assessable income and partly for another use, the amount included in assessable income under subsection (7)(a) or allowed as a deduction under subsection (7)(b) is the proportion that relates to the use of the intangible in gaining or producing assessable income.

(9) Section 31(2) and (3) apply, with the necessary changes made, in determining the written down value of an intangible at the beginning of a tax year.

Division 6

Substituted tax year – (1) A company carrying on a business may, with the written approval of the Commissioner, adopt a period of 12 months other than the calendar year as the tax year of the company (referred to as the “substituted tax year”) and that period is the tax year for the company for each succeeding year unless, with the written approval of the Commissioner, another period of 12 months is adopted as the company’s tax year.

(2) If a company’s tax year changes as a result of subsection (1), the period between the last full tax year prior to the change and the date on which the new tax year commences is treated as a separate tax year referred to as the “transitional tax year”.

(4) The Commissioner may specify that any class of persons must account for income tax purposes on a cash or accrual basis.

36. Simplified tax accounting for small business – (1) The taxable income for a tax year of a person conducting a small business

 - (b) the rate of depreciation of the depreciable assets for the purposes of section 30 or 31 and the rate of amortisation of intangibles for the purposes of section 33 is 100%;
 - (c) section 39 does not apply to the person and a deduction is allowed for the cost of trading stock acquired during the year;
 - (d) the period for retention of records under section 81(2) and amendment of assessments under section 37 of the Tax Administration Act 2012 is 2 years.
- (2) The business of a person is a small business if:

65. Capital gain and capital loss – (1) A person derives a capital gain on disposal of a capital asset if the consideration for disposal exceeds the cost of the asset at the time of disposal, and the amount of the excess is the amount of the capital gain.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), the cost of an asset at the time of disposal is increased by 5% per annum computed from 1 January after the date of acquisition of the asset until the date of disposal.

(3) A person incurs a capital loss on disposal of a capital asset if the cost of the asset at the time of disposal exceeds the consideration for the disposal, and the amount of the excess is the amount of the capital loss.

- (a) a capital gain or loss derived on disposal of a capital asset acquired on or before 31 December 1989;

(4) If a capital improvement is made to a capital asset of a person, other than land, to which subsection (1)(a) applies and the cost of the improvement exceeds 25% of the fair market value of the asset at the time of commencement of the improvement, the asset is treated as

67. Foreign capital gains – (1) If a resident person has made a capital gain on disposal of a capital asset in respect of which foreign tax has been paid and the capital gain has been taken into account in calculating the net capital gain of the person for the tax year in which the asset was disposed, the person is allowed a tax credit for that year of an amount equal to the lesser of:

- (a) the foreign tax paid in respect of the disposal of the asset;
or
- (b) the Samoan capital gains tax in respect of the disposal of the asset.

(2) A tax credit allowed under subsection (1) reduces the amount of capital gains tax payable under section 63 in respect of the net capital gain that included the capital gain in respect of which the foreign tax was paid.

(3) A tax credit allowed for a tax year that is not credited under this section is not refunded, carried back to the preceding tax year, or carried forward to the following tax year.

(4) A tax credit is allowed under subsection (1) only if the foreign tax is paid within 2 years after the end of the tax year in which the capital gain to which it relates was derived by the resident person or within such further time as the Commissioner may allow on application in writing by the resident person.

(5) The Samoan capital gains tax in respect of the disposal of the asset is computed by applying the rate of capital gains tax in Schedule 1 to the amount of the capital gain.

(6) An amount is included in the cost of an asset on the date that it is paid.

(7) If a person disposes of a part of an asset, the cost of the asset is apportioned between the part of the asset retained and the part disposed of in accordance with their respective fair market values determined when the person acquired the asset.

(8) The cost of an asset of a person excludes the amount of any grant, subsidy, rebate, commission, or other assistance received or receivable by the person in respect of the acquisition of the asset, except to the extent to which the amount is included in the assessable income of the person.

78. Transfer pricing – (1) Subject to subsection (2), the Commissioner may, in respect of any transaction between persons who are associates, distribute, apportion, or allocate any income, gain, deduction, loss, or tax credit between the persons as is necessary to reflect the outcome that would have been realised in an arm’s length transaction.

where:

A is the income tax assessed, including under a self-assessment, for the preceding tax year after reduction of any tax credit allowed to the person for that year, other than a tax credit allowed under this section or section 103; and

B is so much of A that was paid by amounts withheld under Division 4 of this Part.

(4) The amount of each instalment of provisional tax payable by a person for a tax year is one-third of the provisional tax payable or estimated under section 86 or 87 to be payable by the person for the year.

B is so much of A that was paid by amounts withheld under Division 4 of this Part.
